

Call for Papers (Regular Issue)

Journal of International DBA Studies

You are invited to submit an original, high quality, and relevant paper for the upcoming inaugural issue. We will notify you soon with the review report if your paper is accepted by the Editorial Review Committee.

The Journal of International DBA Studies (JIDS) is the official journal of the European Business University. It is a peer-reviewed bi-annual online, open access journal of record providing objective coverage of business relevant issues. It provides high-quality articles that combine academic excellence with professional relevance and will benefit from the expertise of a committee of internationally known and well respected academics, business leaders and professionals.

The journal publishes articles on business and policy issues in the context of International Doctor of Business Administration studies. This includes financial management, engineering and technology, public administration, project management, marketing, and many more.

Papers for the regular issues of the journal can be submitted, round the year, electronically at <https://bibliotheca.lu/ojs/index.php/JIDS/information/authors>.

After the final acceptance of the paper, based upon the detailed review process, the paper will immediately be published online. However, assignment of the paper to a specific Volume / Issue of the Journal will be taken up by the Editorial Board later; and the author will be intimated accordingly. For Theme Based Special Issues, time bound Special Call for Papers will be announced and the same will be applicable for that specific issue only.

The journal is of interest to business practitioners, government and international organization officials, experts from professional, industry and non-governmental associations; and academics in the business studies.
